Angry Arabs Demand UN's Egypt Report

Bitter Debate Erupts In Assembly Despite Efforts Of The U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 21 (AP)—Angry Arab delegates today demanded a quick U.N. report on the progress of Israel's withdrawal from Egypt.

The demand came as a new and bitter round of debate on the Middle East erupted in the General Assembly despite a moderately worded American effort to halt it. It was touched off by French charges late yesterday that French nationals had been mistreated in Egypt.

The Arabs angrily accused Britain, France and Israel of "collusion" in the invasion of Egypt and one leader, Farid Zeineddine of Syria, called on the U.N. to investigate the alleged "collusion." Abdel Monem Rifa'i of Jordan told the Assembly that Israel had committed the "ugliest crimes of genocide" during the attack on Egypt. He asked Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to report promptly just how far Israel has pulled back toward the 1949 armistice lines.

As the words flew here, the U.S. was quietly going about the task of clearing the Suez Canal. The U.N. reported four German salvage vessels had sailed down the canal to El Cap, 23 miles south of Port Said. The U.N. described these as the first ships to sail down the canal since the beginning of hostilities.

In Port Said, where the British and French were nearing the end of their withdrawal in compliance with a request of the U.N. Assembly, there was an exchange of prisoners and an agreement for the British salvage fleet to stay at Port Said to help clear the key point for canal traffic.

Repeating charges made earlier this week in the Assembly, Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France, said late yesterday that French nationals had been beaten and imprisoned in Egypt. Abba Eban of Israel added to the Arab anger today by accusing Egypt of expelling Jewish persons of various nationalities in Egypt and conducting "spoilage" against them.

Britain also had charged mistreatment of British nationals in Egypt but had appeared content to accept indirect assurances through Hammarskjold that the situation had been eased. The French delegate pushed the charge on direct orders from Paris.

The United States and Hammarskjold had been trying for days to prevent an airing of the charges. They feared it would bring about a fresh review of the Middle East situation just at a time when it appeared to be quieting down. That is exactly what happened for all the Arabs and some of the Soviet bloc leaped to attack Britain, France and Israel.

Weak Roadbed Blamed In Fatal Train Derailment

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Dec. 21 (AP)—A rain-weakened temporary roadbed crumbled beneath a slowly moving Illinois Central passenger train early today and plunged nine cars down an embankment, killing two persons and injuring 34.

Eighteen of the injured required hospitalization but only two were reported in critical condition. The 14-car Chickasaw, pulled by two diesel locomotives, was feeling its way through a misty fog shortly after midnight when the dirt and rock roadbed collapsed on the outskirts of Belleville, just across the Mississippi River from St. Louis.

The train had left St. Louis about half an hour earlier en

SLAIN — Linda Carol Housewright, 15, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Housewright of Grand Prairie, Tex., was shot to death in the bedroom of her home early yesterday. A 17-year-old Arlington, Tex., boy was arrested. (AP Photofax).

Girl, Father Slain; Mother, Youth Are Shot

CINCINNATI, Dec. 21 (AP)—Pretty Susan Elaine Aue, 17, home from college for the Christmas holidays, and her socialist-businessman father, Lester, 54, died of pistol shots in the family home today.

Gordon (Mac) Pape Jr., 19, her schoolmate in high school and in college, and her mother, Helen, 50, were lying on the floor wounded critically. A maid found them when she heard "thuds" and rushed up from the basement.

Police sat near the beds of both Mrs. Aue and Pape awaiting their return to consciousness to tell them who did the shooting and why. It was feared, however, that the young man would die without regaining consciousness.

The authorities said a pistol lay near Pape's body, which blocked the bedroom in which the girl was found. She was in her night clothing.

Pape, whose family also is prominent, and Susan had a date last night. The maid said the young man returned to the Aue home this morning. That was about 9 a.m., she said.

Aue apparently was shot while he was dressing, for he was not fully clothed. One story had it that Pape and Susan were not in agreement about going steady after they entered Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, this fall. Police also were told that the young man seemed in a happy frame of mind when he dined last night at the Cincinnati Country Club with his family.

Rita Returns To Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21 (AP)—Actress Rita Hayworth returned to Hollywood with her two children today for the Christmas holidays. She arrived by train with her daughters, Rebecca Welles, 11, and Yasmine Kahn, 8. Miss Hayworth has rented a house in Beverly Hills. She had been in Europe and Trinidad for a year.

In February she will begin work on "Pal Joey" with Frank Sinatra and Kim Novak.

Court Backs State Dept. On Passports

Confidential Matter Can Be Used To Refuse Issuance

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—A federal court held today that the State Department has a right to refuse passports on the basis of confidential information it does not disclose.

U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy ruled in the case of Weldon Bruce Dayton, Corning, N. Y., cosmic ray physicist who has been trying since 1954 to get a passport to go to India.

Dayton's attorneys contended he is entitled to confront any unfriendly witnesses heard by the State Department in connection with his application and that a denial of confrontation deprives him of the due process of law guaranteed every citizen.

Upholds Denial

"This contention asserts for the plaintiff (Dayton) in an administrative proceeding a right of confrontation conferred only on defendants in criminal actions and is not supported by authority where the question has been raised in administrative proceedings," Judge McGarraghy said in an 11-page opinion.

McGarraghy upheld the State Department's denial of a passport to Dayton last year but the scientist carried the case to the U.S. Court of Appeals here. In a ruling Sept. 13, the Appellate Court directed the secretary of state, if he refuses a passport, to State whether his findings are based on evidence openly produced or — in whole or in material part — on secret information not disclosed to the applicant.

In the light of this ruling, the secretary of state said he had reason to believe on the balance of evidence that Dayton "is going abroad to engage in activities which will advance the Communist movement for the purpose, knowingly and willfully, of advancing that movement."

Might Prejudice U. S.

The secretary said that disclosure of confidential information in State Department files "might prejudice the conduct of U. S. foreign relations."

The department told the court it had evidence indicating Dayton once headed a Communist front organization and that he associated with persons suspected of being part of the Rosenberg spy ring. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg of New York were executed several years ago for passing atomic secrets to Russian spies.

Dayton wants to go to Bombay, India, to accept a three-year appointment at the Tata Institute of fundamental research.

Noted Radar Scientist Dies

NEPTUNE, N. J., Dec. 21 (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Anderson, 76, noted physicist who led the scientific team which first bounced a radar signal off the moon, died yesterday in Fitkin Memorial Hospital.

Anderson, of Wanamassa, had been ill for several weeks. He retired in 1954 after 24 years as a physicist with the Signal Corps at Ft. Monmouth. The experiment with radar to the moon came in 1946.

A native of Berrien Springs, Mich., and a graduate of Park College in Parkville, Mo., he held a doctor's degree from the University of Illinois.

During and after World War I he supervised aerial research at Langley Field, Va., which included development of the altimeter, direction finder, ground speed meter, and bank indicator for aircraft.

He wrote a book on aerial navigation which still is used in pilot training.

At Ft. Monmouth he supervised development of underwater sound detection and location equipment, and bank indicator for aircraft.

Production for the Jan. 1-Dec. 15 period this year was about 483,620,000 tons against 450,399,000 tons in Jan. 1-Dec. 17 period last year.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—The National Coal Assn. today estimated bituminous production in the week ended Dec. 8 at about 10,655,000 tons.

This compared with 10,610,000 tons for the preceding week and with 10,686,000 tons for the corresponding period last year.

Bus Segregation Is Ended Calmly

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 21 (AP)—The southern tradition of racial segregation ended calmly on city buses in Montgomery today and Negroes sat where they pleased without interference.

In some instances, they chose front seats while white passengers took those farther back. Before the buses were desegregated under a federal court order which went in effect yesterday, Negroes were seated in the rear.

There was only one reported incident of violence. A Negro woman said she was slapped and shoved to the ground by a young white man as she got off a bus.

But there was no widespread violence despite earlier predictions of "bloodshed" by some city officials.

To lessen the possibility of trouble, Negro leaders urged their people to stay off the buses after dark as much as possible for the first few days.

The Rev. Robert Graetz, a white minister who has supported the Negroes, said that precaution was taken on the theory that the danger is greater at night.

Bus company Manager J.H. Bagley said no service will be provided after 7 or 7:30 p.m. until the demands justify later runs. Bus schedules have been curtailed since shortly after the mass Negro boycott began more than a year ago.

The report of an attack on a Negro woman came from a Negro spokesman, the Rev. M. L. King Jr., and was not made to police.

King identified the woman as Mrs. Janie Ruth Wilson, a servant in the home of a white family. He said she suffered a cut lip but was not seriously hurt.

The minister said Mrs. Wilson telephoned him that a young white man slapped her and shoved her to the ground and then sped away in a waiting automobile bearing an out-of-state tag.

The white man was riding the same bus and got off when Mrs. Wilson and a woman companion debarked, King said.

King said Mrs. Wilson made no attempt to strike back. Negro leaders had urged their people in recent days to remain peaceful during the change to integration, "even if others strike first."

Downtown, a white man watching a Negro board a bus shouted to photographers "Go ahead and get that black ———'s picture." But Negroes standing nearby let the remark go unanswered and it ended there.

White passengers for the most part reacted calmly to the end of bus segregation. On one bus, five white women sat down beside a young Negro already seated.

A girl who gave her name as Linda Russell, 18, sat down beside a Negro woman as she boarded a bus in a residential district. Miss Russell told reporters "I figure if they stay in their place and leave me alone, I'll stay in my place and leave them alone."

King and other Negro ministers rode buses during the day to set an example for their race. The clergymen described the conduct of bus drivers as "exceptionally courteous."

Tonight he sat on a wooden stool on the morgue beneath Eastbourne's red brick police headquarters as experts did a second autopsy on the bodies of Mrs. Julia Bradnum, who died aged 85 in 1952, and Miss Clara Neil Miller, who died in 1954 at the age of 87.

Certain organs from the bodies of the two old ladies will be taken to Scotland Yard where they will undergo a microscopic examination by experts in medical jurisprudence.

Hannam has not said what he's looking for in the exhumations, but he worked through the night personally directing a group of gravediggers who spaded up the bodies in two lonely cemeteries.

This plan, if it could be worked out, probably would be preferred by most committee members to the FHA-type loan plan, Stahr said, "because it keeps the federal government out of the picture."

We don't know why — perhaps because of uncertainty by the students as to how well they could repay any loan. Some kind of survey would have to be made to find out what objections would have to be overcome."

It is not foregone that the committee will recommend either of these plans, or any plan. Its study of them is only one part of a larger study of various ways to help deserving but financially handicapped young people continue their education.

Scotland Yard Exhumes Bodies In Murder Case

EASTBOURNE, England, Dec. 21 (AP)—Scotland Yard's "gentleman detective" Herbert Hannam tonight supervised the examination of the exhumed bodies of two former patients of society doctor John Bodkin Adams.

Sixty-five miles away in a London prison cell, the 57-year-old bachelor doctor read the Bible while awaiting trial on charges of murdering Mrs. Edith Morrell, a wealthy widow who was another of his patients. She was cremated after death attributed to a stroke.

Supt. Hannam, called the "gentleman detective" because of his immaculate dress and impeccable manners, is in charge of a Scotland Yard squad which has been looking through the wills of more than 300 people.

The wills were made by residents of this genteel Victorian town. Most were elderly and many of them were widows and spinsters—and rich.

Hannam has not said what he's looking for in the exhumations, but he worked through the night personally directing a group of gravediggers who spaded up the bodies in two lonely cemeteries.

School Teacher, Family Hungry, Tries Burglary

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 21 (AP)—A junior high school teacher, Frank Robert Dyleski, 33, who said his family was hungry, was captured burglarizing a drug store early today.

He was clutching a toy truck when police found him hiding in a walk-in freezer. "There wasn't a bit of food in the house," he told officers as he wrung his hands. He has a wife and three children.

He said he made $3,450 a year as reading and spelling teacher at W. C. Stripling Junior High School here.

The handsome ex-Marine was surrounded by four policemen inside the store about 2 a.m. An automatic burglar alarm brought the officers.

Other loot he held when police found him was perfume and cigarettes.

Plan Is Studied To Aid Needy College Pupils

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—A presidential committee is studying a plan under which needy young Americans could go to college on government-guaranteed loans similar to the present FHA and GI guaranteed home loans.

The plan would call for a would-be college student to find a bank or other financial source willing to make him a loan, repayable over perhaps 20 years after he graduates. The government would guarantee the bank that if the student defaulted the government would pay part of the debt.

Under the GI home loan plan, the government guarantees 60 percent of a loan, up to a maximum guarantee of $7,500. The FHA plan is similar, but on a sliding scale.

The staff director of the President's Committee on Education Beyond the High School, Elvis Stahr, said this was one of several college loan plans being studied by the committee, which is headed by Devereux C. Josephs, board chairman of the New York Life Insurance Co.

Another scheme which the committee has under consideration, Stahr said, would put the university, technical school or other institution in the lender's role, with private sources — foundations, industry associations, even private individuals — sharing as guarantors.

This plan, if it could be worked out, probably would be preferred by most committee members to the FHA-type loan plan, Stahr said, "because it keeps the federal government out of the picture."

Pays Secret Border Visit In Morning

Witnesses Wagons With Refugees; Says U.S. Must Do More

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 21 (AP)—Vice President Nixon said tonight his trip to view the handling of the Hungarian refugee situation had convinced him "The United States must do more than it has already done."

He made the statement after slipping secretly to the Hungarian border at 3:30 a.m. He saw three tractor-drawn wagons take their loads of refugees to an Austrian farmhouse for shelter.

The vice president, who did not tell reporters of the unscheduled visit until tonight, said he was deeply impressed by the devotion of the Hungarian guides who showed their countrymen the way to freedom and by the Austrians who received them.

Thrilling Experience

He called it the "most thrilling experience of my life."

Austrian and U. S. Embassy officials earlier had frowned on any trip to the border for the vice president for security reasons. Austrian police, Deputy U. S. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, Rep. Wilson (R-Calif.) and Nixon's assistant Robert L. King accompanied him on the early morning visit.

They traveled for a mile or more along the border near Andau, one of the crossing points by which more than 150,000 Hungarians have reached Austria since Oct. 23, when the anti-Communist revolution broke out. Andau, two miles from the border, was visited by the vice president yesterday.

He apologized to reporters for not letting them know about his visit beforehand. He said he wanted to attract as little attention as possible while getting a first hand look at conditions facing the fugitives from communism.

Before leaving Vienna for Salzburg tonight to see refugee camps in that area, Nixon was said by U. S. officials to have predicted the United States would extend more aid in the refugee problem before Congress convenes Jan. 3.

Would Open Gates

Officials of U. S. agencies and private and international organizations who attended a meeting with Nixon in the U. S. Embassy interpreted this to mean that President Eisenhower would open the gates to more than the 21,500 refugees due by Jan. 1.

In a statement before his departure, Nixon said he could not come to any conclusions until his inspection tour is completed, and that he will report these to President Eisenhower.

Austria's problem was underlined by a middle-aged woman who came up to Nixon in Vienna and said:

"Mr. Vice President, I know of lots of people who don't have any homes—Austrians, not refugees."

He replied: "I'm aware of some of those problems."

Austria had a housing shortage for its own people and for the tens of thousands of refugees who came even before the Hungarian revolt.

Record High In Living Costs Made In November

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—The government marked up another new record high in living costs today, on the basis of a slight rise in November.

However, the official guess was that costs will hold steady for December, January and February, or more likely decline a bit.

An increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent during November, reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, brought the index to 117.8 per cent of the 1947-49 average, the base period.

This was 2.4 per cent above the figure a year ago and marked the fifth new peak reached in a 1956 climb.

The bureau also reported that net spendable earnings and buying power of factory workers climbed 17 cents during the month to $75.20 a week for a factory worker with three dependents and to $67.79 for a worker with no dependents.

The new factory wage figures were the highest ever, about $2.30 more in each category than a year ago. There are about 17 million factory workers out of a total of 66 million persons employed in the country.

Today's announced rise in the cost of living will mean a wage increase of three cents an hour for about 900,000 workers under contracts geared to living costs. Most of the 900,000 are in the steel industry.

Ewan Claque, head of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said he expected that living costs would remain stable, or probably decline, during December - January-February. One of his reasons: Bargain sales of clothing which regularly come during this time.

He would not make a forecast beyond February, saying he would prefer to wait "until we see what the spring outlook is." He did say the effect of freight rate increases would be felt broadly.

The report on November showed food prices declined seasonally two-tenths of 1 per cent from the previous month, but were 2.8 per cent higher than a year ago.

Housing costs were up, with a 1.1 per cent increase in the cost of heating fuels and a climb of three-tenths of 1 per cent in rents.

Governor Plans To Ask For 80 More Troopers

PIKESVILLE, Md., Dec. 21 (P)—Gov. McKeldin said today that he thinks he will get the 80 additional State troopers he plans to ask for at the 1957 General Assembly.

The governor said he has sought to bring the State Police force "to the necessary strength" since the beginning of his administration, but the Legislature "has prescribed slower progress."

He said he proposed increases of 25 men in 1952, 40 in 1953, 50 in 1954, 75 in 1955 and 80 this year. The Legislature cut this total request of 270 troopers to 140.

McKeldin said he thinks the General Assembly will approve his request in full this time because a special committee of the Legislature Council headed by Del Edgar P. Silver (D-Balto 5th) stated in its official report that "the present State Police force is woefully undermanned."

The governor quoted the committee report as saying "no law effective without proper and adequate enforcement, and this is especially true in the field of traffic law."

McKeldin made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at the graduation of the 37th recruit class of the State Police.

The governor told the new troopers that "scoundrels behind the steering wheels are pointing all our fine new roads in the direction of death."

"Since we cannot stop building good roads without wrecking our economy," he said, "the only alternative is to stop the misuse of the roads."

He said he and other governors have been advocating a move to convince manufacturers to reduce the speed of which automobiles are capable. "But with or without this reduction of speed at the origin, the need for effective law enforcement will increase at a rapid rate through the years," he said.

The governor presented badges and diplomas to 30 new State troopers today.

Poisoned Girl Back In Hospital

HAGERSTOWN, Dec. 21 (P)—Young Molly Kidwell, for whose affections 72-year-old William F. Knighton was charged with murdering her father and two little brothers, has been readmitted to the hospital for further treatment for the effects of arsenic poisoning.

Doctors said today the 13-year-old girl, one of 11 members of her family felled by the deadly chemical, was discharged from a Hagerstown hospital two weeks ago along with her mother and six brothers and sisters.

They said she was admitted to Children's Hospital and School in Baltimore for further treatment after examination showed her hands and legs still were weakened from the effects of the poison. In arsenic cases, traces of the poison lodge in the extremities, they explained.

Molly's father and two brothers, 1 and 2 years old, died in the Hagerstown hospital last month shortly after they were stricken.

Investigators said the well at their family home near Kearneysville, W. Va., just across the Maryland line, had been poisoned. After an exhaustive investigation by police from both states, Knighton was arrested and charged with murder. His body was found hanging in his cell at the Charles Town, W. Va., jail Dec. 3, the day after his arrest.

Sailor Convicted Of Stealing $25

BALTIMORE, Dec. 21 (P)—A 35-year-old Negro sailor was given a 30 day suspended jail sentence today after he was convicted of stealing $25 from the purse of a woman passenger on a bus.

The sailor, Edward Haynsworth, is stationed on the USS Strong, presently at Norfolk, Va.

Stevenson Considered For Calif. Senate Race

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21 (P)—The San Francisco Chronicle said today "A powerful group in the Democratic party is considering Adlai E. Stevenson as a possible candidate in California for the U. S. Senate."

That would mean running the former Illinois governor against incumbent Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) in 1958.

In California one year's residence qualifies a person to seek office.

Santa Claus Doesn't Like To Be Called Santa

NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 21 (P)—There's one Santa Claus that doesn't like to be called Santa Claus.

He's 9-year-old Santa Michael Claus, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Claus, who live east of here.

Santa, also called Mike, has to take a ribbing from his friends all year long but it gets worse around Christmas time.

Santa has three other brothers and sisters, all with ordinary names — Joe, Ted and Wanda.

Mother, Upset By Baby's Cries, Kills Herself

DETROIT, Dec. 21 (P)—The wails of her 2-week-old baby unnerved 19-year-old Mrs. Arlene Weiss.

"I'm so blue about the baby I feel like killing myself," she told her husband, Walter Weiss, 22, as he was leaving for work at an automotive plant Wednesday night.

Yesterday Weiss identified the body of his wife at the Wayne County morgue. She had lain in the path of a speeding passenger train and was struck before the train crew could halt.

"James, our baby, cried a lot," the stunned father said, "but not more than any other normal baby."

"It was our first child," Weiss continued, as if seeking some explanation for the tragedy. "Arlene was nervous and jumpy. She was up every night with him."

The distraught mother left the baby alone in their upstairs apartment and apparently wandered several hours before reaching the railroad tracks.

The young couple met two years ago at a church party at Houghton where Weiss was a student at Michigan College of Mining and Technology. They eloped last Jan. 13 and were married at Angola, Ind.

Man Is Fined $50 For Setting Fire To A Cat

BALTIMORE, Dec. 21 (P)—A man was fined $50 today for setting fire to a cat.

Charles Spriggs, the cat's owner, said he awoke about 1 a. m. today to see his pet streaking down the stairs in "a ball of flame."

John Elbert Early, 37, denied before Magistrate Robert Watts that he set the cat on fire. He said it apparently got into kerosene left by painters. He said he was fond of cats.

Magistrate Watts imposed the fine on a charge of cruelty to animals.

The cat was destroyed at the city animal shelter.

Turkey Planning Security Zone

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 21 (P)—Well-informed sources here said today Turkey is contemplating creation of a security zone along the Turkish-Syrian border in an effort to stop smuggling.

The border is nearly 500 miles long, running east and west from the Mediterranean to Iraq. Upwards of 14 million dollars of Turkish livestock and goods are smuggled across the border into Syria annually, resulting in heavy foreign exchange loss to Turkey.

Group 4 Is Entertained

Mrs. William Knight entertained Group 4 of Central Methodist WSCS with the eighth annual Christmas party. It was held at her home 311 Decatur Street, Thursday afternoon, at which time a Christmas box was packed with gifts for a shutin.

The season motif was carried out in the decorations of the table and throughout the house. Jingle gifts were exchanged. A Christmas program was given with Mrs. Cass Dye giving the Christmas story, assisted by members, and carol singing. The refreshments table was centered with an arrangement of holly and flowers.

Guests were Mrs. B. D. Phillips, Mrs. H. B. Macklin and Mrs. R. J. Reuschlein. Other members present were Mrs. George B. McLaughlin, Mrs. James Twigg, Mrs. Harry Dixon, Miss Sarah Dawson, Miss Carrie Lawson, Mrs. William Wasley, Mrs. Harry Lewis, Mrs. Mable Wade, Mrs. E. B. Warring and Mrs. O. P. Dolan.

State Motorists Make News; 354 Persons Killed

(By The Associated Press) Motorists on Maryland's highways are still making news. Now it's 354 killed on the state's highways for 1956. Last year at this time the number was 488.

No. 354 was Mrs. Wilma Yockel, 40, of suburban Baltimore. Police said she was struck and killed Thursday night while walking along the highway to do some Christmas shopping. Her 14-year-old son, Joseph, suffered a broken arm.

Police later arrested Jack Radcliffe, 44, of Dundalk, and charged him with manslaughter, drunken driving, reckless driving and failing to render aid to an injured person after an accident.

Officers said Mrs. Yockel's body was carried more than 150 feet on the hood of the car that struck her.

No. 353 was Herman L. Yelton, 23, of Finksburg, who, police said, drove his speeding car into the rear of a moving truck on Maryland 140 near Finksburg. The force of the impact wedged the auto under the rear of the truck and caved in the front of the car. State Police said Yelton's car apparently was speeding.

In Baltimore yesterday, a 28-year-old motorist who reportedly told an arresting officer that "I'm going to jail on this thing," was sentenced to 15 months in jail and fined $100 on traffic charges.

Ben Wiggins of Baltimore was sentenced to one year for drunk driving, three months for driving after his license had been revoked and fined for reckless driving when his car plowed into a parked car.

Photographs were introduced at the hearing showing him in various "drooping" positions inside and outside of the car.

An officer testified that Wiggins made the threat to him when he was making the arrest.

Magistrate Harry Silbert, in pronouncing sentence, told him he was not going to "stand for threats against police" who were doing their duty.

Winfield W. Beatty, 23, of Baltimore was ordered jailed for three months and fined $25 and costs after his conviction on a drunken driving charge—his second since June.

Police testified that Beatty was the driver of a reportedly stolen car that crashed into a pursuing police car after the driver was seen climbing into the back seat with two companions, leaving the moving car driverless.

Dawson Protests Schools Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (P)—Rep. William L. Dawson (D-Ill.) said today any report issued by a House subcommittee which investigated Washington's integrated schools, "will be illegal and a nullity."

Dawson, a Negro, said the inquiry by the subcommittee headed by Rep. James C. Davis (D-Ga.) was never authorized by the House.

Davis' group yesterday decided by a split vote to go ahead with a report. This is reportedly critical of the operation of the public school system in the District of Columbia.

Cardinal Asks Polish Unity

VIENNA, Dec. 21 (P)—Poland's Cardinal Stevan Wyszynski today "national unity in a spirit of justice and social peace," Radio Warsaw reported.

Diane Burgess Gets 18 Years

BALTIMORE, Dec. 21 (P)—Fifteen-year-old Diane T. Burgess was sentenced to a maximum of 18 years in prison today for her part in planning the murder of her father, Leonard H. Burgess.

Diane's 15-year-old boy friend, Joseph T. Trombieri, is serving an 18 year sentence in the State Penitentiary for the ambush slaying of Burgess outside his home last September 29.

The girl was charged with being an accessory before the murder. Still to be tried as accessories are Diane's mother, Thelma Burgess, and Walter Brauer, 17, who allegedly loaned the murder weapon to Trombieri.

Diane was sentenced to the State Reformatory for Women by Judge James K. Cullen.

At Trombieri's trial she took the stand to blame herself for the slaying. At her own trial she told of planning the murder with Trombieri.

She told a story of incest and mistreatment as the reason behind her act. The State contended rebellion against parental supervision was the motive for the killing.

Inaugural Parade To Include Missiles

Pennies For Friendship Collected

Pennies for Friendship were collected when the Flintstone Homemakers Club held its Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. B. C. Robinette and Miss Pearl Wilson.

A new member, Mrs. Franklin Norris, was welcomed. Roll call was answered by 22 members and one guest, Mrs. Oka Twigg gave "Safety Precautions for the Holidays." The history of the hymn of the month, "Christians Awake," was given by Miss Wilson and the hymn was sung by the group.

Mrs. Guy Thompson presided at the business session after which a Christmas program of readings, poems, songs and carols was presented with Mrs. Robinette and Mrs. Nixon in charge.

A solo, "My Presents Are up in the Branches," was sung by Mrs. R. T. Gilson. The poems included, "This Is Christmas," and the "Night Before Christmas," were given by Mrs. Carlye Nixon; "The 'Night after Christmas,'" Mrs. Paul Oster. The group sang, "Come All Ye Faithful," "The First Noel," "I Came upon the Midnight Clear," "Away in the Manger," "While Shepherds Watched their Flocks," and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." The readings consisted of "The Star," by Mrs. Leah Twigg; "The Heavenly Choir," Mrs. H. K. Cheney; "The Child," Mrs. Russell Dolly; "The Shepherd," Mrs. Eugene Kinton; "The Greatest Christmas Story ever Told," Mrs. William Heavner; "The Real Meaning of Christmas," Mrs. Curtis Nash; and "Christmas Program," Mrs. Arthur Howard; Mrs. Robinette presented a skit, "The Christmas Shopper."

Gifts contributed will be sent to shut-in club members.

Refreshments were served buffet style. The holiday theme was carried out in the decorations with evergreens, candles and Christmas balls.

Hostesses for the January 14 meeting will be Mrs. H. R. Ash and Mrs. Quinter Bennett.

Clothes Are Purchased For Family

The Mapleside Homemakers Club contributed to a collection to purchase clothing for a needy family, instead of having a jingle exchange at its Christmas party, held at Central YMCA.

Following a turkey dinner Mrs. Frank White reported on the two Thanksgiving baskets for which the members contributed at the last meeting.

A film, "The Spirit of Christmas," was shown. The group sang "Silent Night," with Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie at the piano. Mrs. James Weakley read a poem, "Directions for a Merry Christmas."

Secret sister gifts were distributed by Mrs. Karl Taschenberger, who also conducted the drawing of new sisters for 1957. Mrs. James A. Smith read the names of members having birthdays in December. She presented gifts to Mrs. Taschenberger, Mrs. Virginia Shircliff, Mrs. Blva Brotemarkle and Mrs. Grace Stanton.

Mrs. Charles Moore was installed as vice president, and Mrs. Forrest Snider, secretary. Mrs. Maude Brotemarkle was installing officer.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Defense Against "Underlined" Eyes

"What can I do to waylay those lines that seem to creep so suddenly under the eyes and add years to your age?" writes a desperate middle-aged reader.

Lines, circles, and puffs all seem to be part of an aging process that does "seem to creep up" without too much warning. Actually, certainly physical conditions can cause shadows and puffiness. If these occur, even after several weeks of healthful living, it would be wise to consult a doctor.

But, in the absence of a physical cause, there are many things that will help. When you put your face to bed, apply an eye cream or oil with as few strokes as possible.

The tissue under the eyes is so delicate that fine lines, circles and puffs result not only from failure to lubricate as we mentioned above, but from squinting to shut out glare—or from lack of exercise, fresh air, and sleep.

Before going out on a special date, treat your eyes to a special treatment that will make them sparkle. Cold witch-hazel compresses considerably decrease puffiness. And fine lines will submit to a cotton-ball compress squeezed out in warmed facial oil. Both will triple their value if vice president; Mrs. Isabelle Anderson, immediate past president; Miss Dorothy Bowman, past president and installing officer; Mrs. Madeline Cox, president; Mrs. Shirley Walbert, secretary, and Mrs. Marie Cosner, chaplain.

W. Va. Inaugurates Governor On Jan. 14

Plans Underway For Parade And Public Ceremony

CHARLESTON—Cecil H. Underwood will be sworn in as governor of West Virginia next month in ceremonies outdoors on the north side of the statehouse, if weather permits.

Underwood conferred with L. Steele Trotter, treasurer of the State Board of Control, to work out plans for the January 14 ceremonies. Gov. Marland recently named Trotter, a Republican, chairman of the inaugural committee.

The Republican governor-elect announced after the meeting that a platform for the ceremony will cover the fountain on the north side of the capitol. The fountain is enclosed on three sides by the U-shaped building, and is open on Washington Street.

Underwood said he and his aides considered the rotunda of the building where Gov. Marland was sworn in, but that he found it could not hold more than 2,000 spectators.

"If we have to go through the problem of tickets for an inside inauguration, it will be an endless headache," he said.

In case of snow or rain, however, the ceremony will be held in Charleston's municipal auditorium which seats 3,500 and up to 200 persons on the huge stage.

In addition to Underwood, six other members of the Board of Public Works and one State Supreme Court judge will be sworn in by President Judge Chauncey Browning of the Supreme Court. The board members are:

Secretary of State D. Pitt O'Brien, Auditor Edgar B. Sims, Agriculture Commissioner John T. Johnson, and three new members, Virgil Rohrbaugh, school superintendent; Orel S. Keen, treasurer, and W. W. Barron, attorney general. Judge Leslie E. Given will take the oath of office for a new term on the Supreme Court.

Underwood also said he would like to move up the time from the usual noon ceremony to 10:30 a. m. for the convenience of 16 to 20 high school bands he has invited to march in the inaugural parade.

In this way, he explained, Charleston area bands can travel here that morning and leave early the same afternoon. Underwood said the parade would move from downtown Charleston to the capitol building for the ceremony with Kanawha County Sheriff A. J. Carey as marshal. The ceremonies will face the main wing of the statehouse. The audience will stand on the steps which lead to the second floor rotunda.

Keyser High Band Concert Praised

KEYSER — The Keyser High School band's annual Christmas Concert, held Tuesday at the high school auditorium under the direction of Nunzio Barbera, was proclaimed a success by the small crowd attending.

"The Christmas Story" was enacted by members of the reserve band in a tableau with the concert band furnishing the traditional Yule music.

The second half of the program began with a "Christmas Greeting March" and the "First Noel Fantasy." Ronald Franklin, James Wilcox and Rita Barbera were featured in a trumpet trio, "Bugler's Holiday."

Also on the program was "The Christmas Suite," and "Themes from the Nutcracker Suite." Concluding the evening's entertainment was the "Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel.

Firemen Continue Shooting Matches

Hungarians Reach Haven In United States

Once more on free soil, these Hungarian refugees are welcomed at McGuire Air Force Base, N. J., after flying directly from refugee camps in Austria. They were taken to Camp Kilmer, N. J., where the American Red Cross provides welfare services, clothing and communications. The Red Cross special disaster appeal for $5,000,000 is to meet the overwhelming demands for long-term relief in Hungary and for Hungarian refugees and to meet the enlarged program at Camp Kilmer. Allegany County has been asked to raise $2,630 of this total and other area counties are also participating in the campaign.

Garrett Countians To Form Industrial Promotion Group

Keyser WSCS Plans Dinner In January

KEYSER—The Woman's Society of Christian Service held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday in the church with Mrs. Charles Daugherty presiding at the business session. Mrs. A. V. Gallion and Mrs. Harry Reese reported on the mental health program being organized in Keyser and vicinity.

An oyster dinner, tentatively planned for Monday, January 23, will be served by the WSCS. The ticket sale will be under direction of Mrs. Reese, Mrs. J. D. Kennedy and Mrs. J. M. Salyards. The group voted to give $10 to ward the city's community Christmas baskets.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. Reese, vice president. Miss Alma Peters was the leader; Mrs. Gallion, scripture reader; Mrs. Salyards, prayer and Mrs. Parker Black sang the first verses of "Silent Night," "Away In A Manger," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." She led the group in singing "Silent Night" and "Joy To The World."

Mrs. Thomas Ward placed the letters of the word "Christmas" on a flannel board while Miss Peters explained the key word for each letter. The theme was "Christmas At Home." Mrs. Gallion accompanied Mrs. Black on the piano.

Following the prayer, the group adjourned to the home of Rev. and Mrs. S. A. F. Wagner where a social hour was held. Refreshments were served by the hostess. About 40 members of the society attended. Decorations were in a holiday motif.

Moose Entertain

FROSTBURG — The annual Christmas party for children, sponsored by Moose Lodge No. 348 and Women of the Moose, Chapter 221, will be held today at 2 p. m. in the lodge room. The party is open to area children.

Frostburg Ground Observer Unit Is Placed On "Reserve"

FROSTBURG — Observation Filter Center, under which Post 24 B of the Ground Observer Corps, under orders from the United States Air Force, has terminated its 24-hour around-the-clock service and is placed on "Ready Reserve."

According to communications received from headquarters, this change is the result of the vast, improved radar aircraft detection chains now in full operation.

These chains extend from several hundred miles out in the Pacific Ocean, across the continent at the United States-Canadian border and out into the Atlantic several hundred miles.

A second chain runs southward from the Canadian border along the top of the Sierra Nevada mountain range through Sioux Falls, Joplin and Atlanta to Jacksonville, Fla. The third detection chain extends from the tip of Southern California along the southern borders of Arizona and Texas.

In addition to the Pittsburgh Post 24 B operates, seven other centers are also placed under the same status, including Des Moines, Iowa; Terra Haute, Ind.; Springfield and Chicago; Columbus, Ohio; Harrisburg, Pa., and Albany, N. Y.

According to a letter mailed to the volunteers yesterday, the organization alert and intact, December 7 when observers were called out to man the post from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m., proving the contention that under the "Ready Reserve" system the post will be able to reactivate within 30 minutes at anytime.

The observers who reported for duty on this occasion were Bolino, Eleanor Cooper, Viola Drew, Elizabeth K. Cobey, Ellen J. Denison, John L. Dunkle, Hayes and Donald W. Lewis.

Temperance Unit Opposes Bosely Seat In House

Resolution Cites His Interest In Brewers Foundation

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 21 — The Temperance League of West Virginia has adopted a formal protest against Hugh Bosely of Fayette County serving in the House of Delegates of the new State Legislature.

Forwarded to House Clerk C. A. Blankenship today was a copy of a resolution adopted by the League's board of trustees, and signed by President Joe B. Overmyer, Secy. Hadley Hall and Supt. L. J. Priestly.

The resolution noted that since winning nomination last May, Bosely has accepted the post of director of the West Virginia Division of the United States Brewers Foundation.

That organization, according to the League, "is and has been continuously, actively and vitally interested in legislation favorable to the brewing industry."

It said that "representation of said special interest is utterly incompatible and inconsistent with the performance of the public duties of a legislator."

The League called upon Bosely "at once to disassociate himself from one of said offices or the other; and upon his failure to do so, that the House of Delegates be requested to take appropriate action."

Bosely is a former basketball coach and athletic director at West Virginia Tech., and also served as business manager of that Montgomery college.

GOP Is Replacing Democrats In W.Va. State Job Scramble

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 21 (AP)—Although Republican Governor Cecil H. Underwood will not assume office until Jan. 14, the Democratic-controlled State Liquor Commission has commenced hiring Republicans where vacancies occur.

Two store managers have been hired for posts at Huntington and Point Pleasant and several Republicans are now working at commission headquarters at the statehouse.

"It's foolish to put Democrats on with only three weeks to go," one Democratic official said today.

He added that all appointments are being made by Douglas F. Frettel of Huntington, minority member of the three-man commission.

Frettel confirmed the new policy and said that he had cleared all the Republican appointees with the GOP county organizations involved, in line with the announced patronage policy.

"This is big business and we've got to keep it operating," Frettel said.

Area Mayors Interested In Sewage Plant

Hope that they can participate in the waste treatment plant to be built by the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company was expressed yesterday by mayors and councils of Piedmont, Westernport and Luke at a meeting at the mill.

A principal factor to be considered, representatives of the three communities said, is financing, but all three indicate they will proceed at once with engineering studies to determine what these costs will be.

Representatives of the communities previously had inquired of the paper company to see if it would be possible for them to participate in construction of the waste treatment plant to cost $3 million and scheduled for construction on company-owned land east of Westernport.

John A. Luke, mill manager, told the group the company will be glad to have the communities join in the project if mutually satisfactory arrangements can be reached. He pointed out, however, that engineering and construction must be started soon, so that the waste treatment plant can be in operation on schedule to meet commitments made with the Maryland State Water Control Board in connection with the mill's projected expansion.

Richard Emory, Baltimore, an attorney for the company, suggested that a practical method of operating the waste treatment plant should the communities join with the company would be to extend the powers of the Upper Potomac River Commission so that it could serve as an authority for that purpose.

Owen E. Hitchens, of the Upper Potomac River Commission, said the commission would cooperate in such a proposal.

Earl E. Manges, who acted as legal adviser for the towns of Westernport and Luke, and Piedmont Councilman Joseph Maybury said the financing of sewage treatment plants alone by the towns would be mighty hard to arrange.

Manges emphasized that the proposal to join with the Luke company would be a "golden opportunity" to obtain sewage treatment facilities at minimum cost.

Mayor Okey E. Michael, Mayor Rodney Baker of Piedmont and Mayor Edward Duckworth all expressed interest in studying the financing arrangements in more detail. Mr. Luke said that charges would be figured on a pro-rata basis.

Both the West Virginia and Maryland State Health Departments have been urging communities to install sewage treatment plants and now would be the time to obtain such facilities, Manges added. He said that sometime in the future the towns might be compelled to have sewage treatment facilities constructed.

Another meeting will be held Friday, January 11, at 10 a. m. at the Luke mill at which progress reports will be given by both company representatives and officials of the towns.

National Biscuit Gets New Contract

A new two-year contract has been agreed upon by Local 453, Teamsters Union, and the National Biscuit Company here.

C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said the pact calls for a 10-cent an hour raise retroactive to November 1 and an additional 11 cents and hour effective January 7, 1957 for drivers. Inside workers will get the same pay raise as of November 1 but the hike on January 7 will be two and one-half cents an hour.

Stutzman also said the new contract calls for three weeks vacation with pay after 10 years service. The work week will be cut from 48 to 45 hours on January 7, 1957, he said.

Construction Worker's Widow Sues For $200,000

The widow of a construction worker who was fatally injured last June 16 yesterday filed suit in Circuit Court for $200,000 damages.

She is Mrs. Leah Rae Bower, who was 13 years of age at the time her husband, Robert M. Bower, 22, of Ridgeley, was fatally hurt. He died July 3, 1956.

Defendants in the suits are the Consolidated Engineering Company, the Sargent Electric Company and the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company. Bower died as a result of his injuries in an explosion at the plant.

Filing the suit for Mrs. Bower were Thomas B. Finan, local attorney, and John E. Crynock, a representative of the company. The suit alleges that the Consolidated Engineering Company was negligent in the manner in which it maintained a bottled gas heater in the basement of Silo No. 4 and also alleged that the Sargent Electric Company was negligent in making reasonable inspections of the premises in which it was working so as to see that a safe and proper working place was available.

It was further alleged that the Sargent firm had boarded off a portion of the basement of Silo No. 4 as a tool room and drying room and had not provided for any ventilation and that it was in this room that gas fumes from the defective heater accumulated.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company was also charged with negligence in not providing reasonably safe working conditions for the employees of the independent contractors on the job.

Bower was employed by Hinkle Brothers Construction Company, a structural steel contracting firm.

The New Amsterdam Casualty Company is also a party plaintiff in the case as it is suing to obtain reimbursement for the compensation award given Mrs. Bowers for the death of her husband, occurring in the scope of employment as provided by the Workmen's Compensation Act of Maryland. She received $10,000 in the death of her husband under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Several months ago a number of suits were filed in Circuit Court for damages suffered by other workers badly burned in the explosion. These suits totaled well over $200,000.

Two wills were admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

Dorothy Jane McGinnis, Landover, Md., daughter of J. Taylor Crump, 66, of Frostburg, who died December 12, obtained letters of administration on the estate. The children of the deceased were named beneficiaries.

The will of Harry L. Smyth, 57, Winchester Road, who died December 13 named his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Julia Smyth, as executrix and beneficiary.

Wiley Ford Church To Present Program

The Church School of the Wiley Ford Church of the Brethren will present its Christmas program Sunday at 7:30 p.m. according to Rev. Connell T. Chaney, pastor.

The program is under the direction of the Board of Christian Education, Mrs. Mildred Lambert, Mrs. Sally Bennett, Mrs. Catherine Mongold, and Mrs. Connell Chaney, with Darl Hinkle, pianist.

Two television sets were provided for the retreat by members of the Junior Woman's Civic Club. One will be used in the men's quarters and the other for the women.

J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department, reported that he investigated a complaint by Ollie B. M. Heipp, who said county road workers had removed a knoll from her property and placed the fill dirt on a nearby property.

Chapman said a check revealed the knoll was not on the Heipp property.

A complaint that two culverts on Valley Road, opposite the County Farm, posed a traffic hazard was also checked by Chapman. He told the board the culverts were inside the city limits of Cumberland and not the responsibility of the county. It had been reported the reflector lights had been torn from the culverts.

Chapman also reported repairs had been made to a section of the bank at one end of the bridge across Lower Town Creek, which had been washed out by recent heavy rainfall. Lawrence Maltery of that section reported the condition.

The commissioners also received a letter from J. Holland Rannels, president of the Potomac Valley Television Company, in which he said the firm will provide a free TV cable installation at Sylvan Retreat, the county mental institution.

Fritz wrote the board that he would like to discuss the matter and suggested either January 15 or January 18 for the meeting. The commissioners decided on January 15. The discussion will be held during the regular board meeting that day.

Several weeks ago Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson received a letter from the State Department of Health describing the matching fund program for hospital expansion. At that time Wilkinson said consideration should be given to adding more facilities to the County Infirmary.

The commissioners also received a letter from J. Holland Rannels, president of the Potomac Valley Television Company, in which he said the firm will provide a free TV cable installation at Sylvan Retreat, the county mental institution.

Motorists Are Urged To Have Safe Holiday

State Police yesterday issued a reminder to motorists to drive extra carefully during the holiday period which will begin this evening for many persons.

The reminder was issued in conjunction with the November report of traffic accidents, and although no Allegany County highway fatalities were recorded last month, State Police spokesmen pointed out that one person was killed last Saturday on the Baltimore Pike just outside the city limits.

Increased holiday traffic during twilight hours add to the danger for the motorists and pedestrian alike, a spokesman at the LaVale barracks said. Special attention should be given to safety at that time of day.

Police officials said drinking is always one of the predominant causes of accidents during December. The drinking driver and pedestrian, it was pointed out, is a menace both to himself and others.

A summary of the November report shows 74 traffic accidents were investigated. There were 30 persons injured in the mishaps. Allegany was one of 14 counties which reported no fatal accidents last month.

Statewide, there were 52 traffic deaths reported, bringing the number of persons killed in auto accidents for the 11-month period to 497. This represents a seven per cent increase with last year's figure for the same period when 463 persons were killed.

Iraq's Durable Premier Nuri

The rift among the Arab States, ever widening and ever more apparent, could topple Premier Nuri as-Said of Iraq. But short of extinction, Iraq's strong man could not be brought down easily nor kept down long, judging by the record of this most durable of Middle East leaders.

For more than 30 years, Nuri as-Said has been a power in Araby. He played a major role in the protracted negotiations with Great Britain by which Iraq attained independence—and membership in the League of Nations—in 1932. Nationalists took over Iraq following an army coup in 1936, and Nuri was exiled. Yet he returned to form a moderate government the following year. Nuri has been prime minister 13 times, foreign minister 10 times, minister of defense 10 times. This in a state which has had more than 50 governments in a little more than 30 years, which saw eight military coups from 1936 to 1952, which has had 20 government changes just in the last 15 years.

Now other Arab nations are hitting at Nuri through the Baghdad agreement. Foreign Minister Salah Bitar of Syria this week called on Arabs to "save Iraq from the chains of servitude with which the Baghdad Pact is tying her." Nuri on Sunday had devoted a full-length foreign policy speech to defense of Iraq's participation in the Baghdad agreement. He also charged that Egypt's attitude to Iraq was in line with the conduct of the chief enemies of Iraq—"the Communists, the Zionists, the imperialists, and the French."

Pro-British and pro-U. S., Nuri is bitterly anti-Israel. He has charged Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser with trying to make peace with Israel 13 months ago. Nuri's anti-Jewish record extends at least back to 1943, when he refused to allow the passage through to Palestine of 500 Jewish refugee children. So Nuri, who has been called "faithful and statesmanlike" by Sumner Welles, former U. S. Under Secretary of State, could also prove a somewhat embarrassing friend of the U. S.

They are traditionally antagonistic to Republicans in their own states but know how to get along with Republicans in Congress. They are proud of the new industrial development in the South and fear that it may be impeded by some of the socialistic ideas of their colleagues who associate themselves with the Americans for Democratic Action.

By long tenure, it is these Democrats who are the senior members of important Congressional committees and who possess the greatest power in the Congress.

The second element consists of those Northern Democrats who are affiliated with organized labor or the more radical organizations in agriculture to whom they are bounden for their campaign support. Many of them belong to the Americans for Democratic Action, a Fabian Socialist organization which has thus far been more noisy than effective. Many of these Northerners come from communities where "minority rights" is a burning issue, real or synthetic, and they weigh all questions in relation to Civil Rights. Therefore, they are more antagonistic to their Democratic colleagues from the South than they are to some Republicans who have also made Civil Rights their central issue.

There is another element among the Northern Democrats, an intellectual element, who believe that it would be a calamity if the Democratic Party were split, who distrust the Eisenhower Administration which they claim is confused as to what it stands for. They are particularly antagonistic to the current management of the State Department and look back to the Acheson regime with longing appreciation.

These Democrats are seeking a bridge between North and South, an intellectual approach to current political problems that will make the party in Congress sufficiently effective to build a constructive record for 1960 when, they believe, Richard Nixon will inevitably be the Republican candidate for President, and they want to defeat him. They would naturally prefer a Democrat and recognize that the dimensions of the defeat of Adlai Stevenson must be due to something more than the personal popularity of Eisenhower. They regard the Democratic victories in state elections as evidence that at the grass roots the Democrats are popular but that on a national level, they have lost the confidence of the people and that it needs to be regained.

Then there are the local Democratic bosses in each city who are being assailed on all sides by these contending factions. For instance, in New York the radical element, led by Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, Thomas K. Finletter, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, which has as its organ the "New York Post," is continuing to oppose Carmine DeSapio's leadership. The Liberal Party which used to be of some significance in New York is approaching death; what is left of it will be absorbed by the Democrats. It is not possible to find any Republican Party in this city worthy of note.

The New York quarrel is characteristic of the entire country. The professional leadership is on the whole traditional; the public leaders are New Dealers with a tendency to accept A.D.A. guidance; the mass of voters do not want a combination of anti-Democrats to win locally.

Hot Time For St. Nikita

Prime Minister Nehru's Visit: Lest We Forget

WASHINGTON—The refrain in Kipling's famous "Recessional" comes to mind again and again in these moments when Prime Minister Nehru of India occupies the world stage—those memorable words, "Lest We forget, lest we forget."

For, as Nehru's speeches—with their equivocal phrases and verbal bouquets—are reported throughout the nation by means of radio and television broadcasts and lengthy news dispatches, what is omitted from the story serves to emphasize how conveniently short are the memories of some visiting statesmen.

Only yesterday Nehru was refusing in the United Nations to condemn Soviet aggression in Hungary. He excused it lamely now with the argument that he had a differently-worded resolution to offer as a substitute. In the final showdown, however, India was the only non-Communist government to refuse to support the cause of freedom and justice.

Only yesterday Nehru was engaged in a diplomatic conspiracy to secure the withdrawal of United Nations troops from North Korea and to leave the U. N. in a humiliating position in the Panmunjom armistice.

Only yesterday the free world was condemning Red China as an aggressor in Korea, where 33,629 American boys were killed and more than 103,000 wounded, along with hundreds of thousands of the brave soldiers of our allies. But Nehru has already forgotten what happened in Korea. He is ready to extinguish the fires of liberty and freedom that still burn on Formosa as a symbol for all Chinese. He wants to reward the aggressor—Red China—even though no act of atonement or repentance has come as yet from the Peking Government.

Indeed, Red China still holds many Americans as prisoners of war notwithstanding the provisions of the Armistice of 1953 that they must be given up.

But Nehru has come nevertheless to the White House this week to present some "complaints" from Chou En-lai, whose government in Peking ordered the murder of hundreds of American prisoners captured in Korea.

Nehru has recognized the Red China Government and is championing it in the United Nations. Yet, when asked at the press conference here on Wednesday why, even though his government recognizes the little Republic of Israel, he has not sent diplomatic representatives to that country, he said the situation was too serious now to do so in view of recent events in Egypt. Long before the Suez crisis, however, Nehru refused to give full recognition to Israel.

Nehru came here well coached. He handled his press conference and television broadcast with the mastery of a public relations expert. These techniques are studied in advance by foreign visitors of prominence because it's all a form of "brainwashing" that means getting across some effective propaganda. Thus, the usual advice given in advance is to "softsoap" Americans by extolling Jefferson and Lincoln and talking about the American Revolution.

That's what Sukarno of Indonesia did on his trip here last spring. As soon as he got back home he resumed the policies of a ruthless dictatorship.

Nehru and Sukarno have visited the United States after being importuned to do so by some meddling Americans and starchy-eyed diplomats of the school of thought which believes a "give-away" of American money solves everything.

Individuals who have had ringworm and are allergic to fungi in general suffer from itching over the hands, feet, and groin several hours or days after receiving the drug. In time, the skin over these areas becomes red and swollen and breaks out into blisters or pimple-like lesions.

Men and women who handle penicillin every day may encounter contact dermatitis that looks like poison ivy. Physicians and nurses are in this category. They cannot walk into a hospital or administer the drug without developing eczema. Anyone who is known to be allergic to the drug never should take it unless absolutely necessary and everything is in readiness to counteract a reaction should it occur.

Herniated disk surgery

Mrs. H. H. writes: I have a slipped disk in the lower spine and traction has not helped. Is the operation for this condition dangerous?

REPLY

Surgery is advised when conservative measures fail to relieve pain. The operation is a major procedure and needs to be done skillfully but it does not carry a high mortality rate. The surgeon removes the material that is protruding from the disk and pressing upon certain nerves in the spine. When this material does not slip back in place spontaneously, the individual has no choice if he wants relief.

(Editor's note — Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of his day-to-day log written on his Christmas trip to help bring holiday cheer to American troops in the Arctic. He took with him a group of Broadway entertainers.)

GOOSE BAY, Labrador. — Arrived at 8 p.m. and almost immediately began to wish I hadn't. Temperature was 20 degrees below zero, which is not bad because we were dressed for it. But inside a big hangar where we staged our first show it was 15 degrees above and seemed colder than outside. Men had been standing in the hangar for three hours waiting for us. (Our plane had been delayed in New York, got into Goose Bay three hours late.)

Somehow the girls were able to look nonchalant parading across stage with low-necked dresses. I nearly froze watching them. I had sneaked into a latrine long enough to put on some long underwear. I didn't tell anyone about this. It made me ashamed to watch Lisa Ferraday looking as if she were in the tropics in a low-cut gown. I was wearing an overcoat backstage. Our orchestra... The Jumping Jacks, were on the stage beside her wearing parkas. Len Berge at the piano put on gloves between numbers. I ruled out the Arlene Dahl nightgowns for the Hartford models. But they did wear evening gowns—as if strolling down Park Avenue in June.

Finally the Air Force brought up a big gasoline heater used to warm up engines and started it backstage. It helped. You could come back occasionally and warm your hands. The audience, however, didn't sit on its hands. The GIs seemed to appreciate our coming that distance. I was a lousy master of ceremonies. Couldn't really blame it on the cold, felt foolish introducing a lot of beautiful women. In the middle, Clara Cedrone, shivering in a flimsy dress, came up and said: "Why did you ever leave your nice farm in Maryland?"

I wondered myself.

Expensive Snow

Later, I felt ashamed. I learned that Gen. Jim Knapp, commander at Goose Bay, had been marooned considerably farther north, at Frobisher. He had been up dropping Christmas trees and presents on small isolated weather stations where the men can't get away until spring. One of engines conked out. He finally got back just before we left. General Knapp is the kind of young officer who takes his job seriously, so seriously that he volunteered for an extra year of duty in the Arctic.

After freezing in the hangar, the cast had a beefsteak dinner and felt better. It snowed a bit outside — beautiful against the Canadian pines, but expensive. Col. William C. Armstrong, deputy commander, told me that it would cost about $1,250 to clear one inch of snow off the runways. And it snows a total of about 125 inches every winter at Goose Bay, so you can figure out the cost to Uncle Sam.

Men get groggy after running snowplows too long. The Colonel explained. A six-hour shift is about all they can work. They get sort of snow blind, and begin to pile up their bulldozers. After two or three weeks of snow, so much is piled up that a bulldozer can't push it out of the way. All you can do is shovel it up and remove it by truck.

Most people think that the chief expense of war or the defense against war is in battleships, planes, or tanks; but it creeps into everything. For instance, when it isn't snowing, Goose Bay has another problem—sand. The base is built on sand, and the sand starts blowing as soon as the ground thaws. They are now planting rye grass to keep the sand in place.

The weather, however, is the greatest expense of all. Man's battle against the elements is probably more severe than man's battle against other men. We passed a huge pile of sand. It was shoveled there, not blown there, to be used to sand the runways in case of ice. Colonel Armstrong explained that the sand had to be heated. Heating pipes run all through the big pile so it won't freeze in advance of being scattered over the runways.

When we landed at the hangar I noticed fire trucks waiting for us. They were not to welcome us or because anyone thought we were going to crash, but because the fire sprinkler system in one hangar had gone out of whack.

Fire In The Arctic

Fire is the greatest of all hazards in the Arctic. If serious fire gets started, there isn't much you can do about it. Water freezes fast. At some bases water is limited. It has to be hauled in by truck. Furthermore, aluminum hangars, originally thought to be fireproof, reach a point where they go up like magnesium. If airplanes are inside, several million dollars worth of property can go up in smoke.

That's why the fire engines were hanging around, also why every building is lined with little buckets of water for cigarette butts. Smoking in bed is one of the curses of the Arctic and has caused more fires than almost anything else.

Left a 5:30 a.m. call for the cast so we could get off early for Sondstrom in southern Greenland. We didn't get to bed until 1 a.m. but everyone was a good sport about the early call. Got to breakfast on time and down to the plane and inside it right on time. Then we sat, and sat and sat. Two engines wouldn't start. Again, old man weather!

The plane had been pulled into a hangar for the night, but a hangar door got stuck, frozen by the weather, and the oil in our engines congealed, or froze, or something tighter than Arctic ice. We had to get out of the plane. They applied heat to the engines for two hours and we finally got started three hours late.

I thought I would get some nasty cracks from the people I had wakened at 5:30 a.m. But Ella Logan, star of "Finian's Rainbow" whom I call "The Pixie of Broadway," had been with me in the Arctic last winter and knew what it was like. So had the comedy team, Clara Cedrone and Damian Mitchell. Adolf Green, who has just written "Bells are Ringing," which is so popular that it's impossible to get tickets, was new; also John Modenos, Siri, and Miss Ferraday. But they were all wonderful sports. Eventually we got off. Flying north, we crossed the tip of Labrador, crossed the Davis Strait, dotted with icebergs, to southern Greenland.

PLEASE NOTE

What are the two saddest words in the English language? A New Yorker says they are "plus tax." His selection has merit. But how about "also ran". . . . Card players quarrel more than the participants in any other game. Bridge players battle more than any other card players. Bowlers do the least quarreling of all sports or games participants.

HORSES AND WOMEN

What's your wife's waist measurement? Or do you know? Anyway, if it is over 26 inches she will never win a Mrs. America contest, be named for a "10 best dressed women" list or be a belle of the beach. If your spouse wants to clip a couple of inches off her waist measurement, here is a helpful hint offered by the well streamlined Arline Judge. "Lie down, put your feet in the air and rotate your legs as though riding a bicycle on the ceiling."

SHOPPING

"Before you buy try three places." So advised Confucius. How right he was. You certainly can save yourself quite a little money if you shop around a bit. And with no sacrifice of quality. Many well-known products sell for different prices in different places. As has been said, "A penny saved is a penny earned." And, remember, on the money you earn by saving, there is no income tax.

ASIDES

A typist should be able to type six lines a minute. Without any errors, of course. Give your amanuensis a six-line workout. Clock her and see if she is on the beam as to speed. . . . The gambling devices in Las Vegas, Nev., showed a profit of $43 million last year. Now you know why they can pay those fancy prices for entertainment talent to appear in the night clubs connected with the gambling salons.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

(Editor's Note: Brother Barnabas, whose column regularly appears in this space on Saturdays, is absent this week because of illness. He hopes, however, to resume his column soon.)

Am informed a group of secretaries of executives are meeting regularly to discuss the question "How to understand men." This is certainly a step in the right direction. Women who really understand men are rare. That is why the few who do understand them have such an advantage in securing and holding high salaried positions as well as in selling and in husband hunting. The majority of females labor under the delusion they know how to handle men. That they really do not is because they generalize. That is, they say, "Men like this," "Men are just grown up boys," "Men are easily flattered." And so on. The woman who achieves an understanding of men knows that they are as different as their fingerprints. Every man should be studied individually.

Queries from clients. Q. Who originated the expression "no more privacy than a goldfish"? A. H. H. Munro, British short story writer. Q. Did John Barrymore ever appear in a musical comedy? A. Yes, sir. It was titled "A Stubborn Cinderella." In that, Barrymore did a song and dance. Q. What is the ideal figure for a dress model? A. We do not have that information in our Horses and Women files. I understand, however, it is a matter of open opinion of the various distinguished designers. Dior favors models with the following measurements. Bust, 35; waist, 19½; and hips, 35. Q. Discussing the success of songs dealing with Christmas, I claimed there have been more phonograph records sold of Irving Berlin's "White Christmas" than any other song. Right? A. Quite right, sir. Over 18 million records of "White Christmas" have been sold. Incidentally, about nine million of these are of the recording of the song made by Bing Crosby.

Penicillin Allergies Run The Gamut Of Reactions

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Penicillin, the original wonder drug, still is used more than any other antibiotic. Over 350 tons are prescribed annually in the United States. But allergy to the mold has occurred and now and then is so severe as to cause death.

The usual reactions are hives, fever, and pain in the joints from seven to 14 days after the drug is started. Symptoms are more uncomfortable than serious and they subside as a rule when the antibiotic is stopped.

The person who has taken penicillin before may have become sensitized to the mold but this is not known until the antibiotic is used again. This individual is likely to develop an immediate or accelerated reaction within five seconds to 24 hours after the injection. A response of this type may be mild or severe but is typically allergic in nature.

Some develop hives; others, asthma. A few go into a typical anaphylactic shock, which is more serious. The victim collapses, the blood pressure falls and the pulse becomes imperceptible. Death is imminent unless the allergic state is counteracted with ephedrine or cortisone.

Individuals who have had ringworm and are allergic to fungi in general suffer from itching over the hands, feet, and groin several hours or days after receiving the drug. In time, the skin over these areas becomes red and swollen and breaks out into blisters or pimple-like lesions.

Men and women who handle penicillin every day may encounter contact dermatitis that looks like poison ivy. Physicians and nurses are in this category. They cannot walk into a hospital or administer the drug without developing eczema. Anyone who is known to be allergic to the drug never should take it unless absolutely necessary and everything is in readiness to counteract a reaction should it occur.

Herniated disk surgery

Mrs. H. H. writes: I have a slipped disk in the lower spine and traction has not helped. Is the operation for this condition dangerous?

REPLY

Surgery is advised when conservative measures fail to relieve pain. The operation is a major procedure and needs to be done skillfully but it does not carry a high mortality rate. The surgeon removes the material that is protruding from the disk and pressing upon certain nerves in the spine. When this material does not slip back in place spontaneously, the individual has no choice if he wants relief.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

A fisherman in the Arabian Sea pulled in one day a strange copper bottle with a golden seal. When he broke it open, a cloud of smoke rushed out, and turned into a huge genie. "I'll revenge myself for my imprisonment in that bottle," roared the monster. "by killing everybody I see, and I will begin with you."

The quick-thinking fisherman said, "Go ahead and kill me. Still I won't be convinced that a giant like you could be contained in that tiny bottle!"

"You won't, hey?" boomed the genie. "Doubters like you really burn me up. Look at this, you twerp!"

Condensing himself in the twinkling of an eye, he poured himself back in the bottle. "Amazing!" chuckled the fisherman as he replaced the cork and threw the bottle back into the sea.

what religion means to me...

Religion means many, many things to me which, when all summed up, represent a basic philosophy to live by and a faith in which we can humbly put our trust.

It is a way of life based on love, sacrifice and service to God and to our fellow men. Probably the most important thing in life is to know about God and obey His will. We learn about God by reading the Bible, and we obey His will according to our willingness to surrender our lives to Him.

Religion gives life a purpose and a set of moral and spiritual guides from which we can judge what we should do, what we should say, and what we should think. Among these guides are the Ten Commandments, the Beatitudes, the Golden Rule, and faith in prayer.

More specifically, religion gives us an inner peace when worldly problems confront us. It gives us warming comfort when we are grieved or worried. When thunder and lightning and floods and earthquakes remind us of how insignificant and helpless we are in the midst of God's power, we are confident He will see us through.

Religion compels us to put God first in all doings, making "first things first" a guiding principle.

(As part of its observance of December as Religion in American Life month, the Junior Association of Commerce has invited prominent lay members of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths to express their views on the meaning of religion. The second of three articles is presented here today by the Jaycees, with the cooperation of the Times-News papers.)

ROBERT E. PENCE

It reminds us that pride, envy, jealousy and a desire for wealth and power are wrong and that gentleness, kindness, mercy, humility and love should rule our lives instead. It gives us respect and concern for the welfare of others. It makes us want to share with those less fortunate than we. It gives us a desire to return a fair portion of the fruits of our labor for the Lord's work. It beckons us to stop and help when others are in trouble and to go out of our way for them, whether we know them individually or not. It causes us to abhor lying, cheating and stealing. It makes us seek to be strong in what is right, good, clean, fine and fair.

Religion makes us seek the strength to return good for evil and to forgive as we would like to be forgiven. It makes us fight selfishness and self-centeredness with a desire to please God instead of trying to make ourselves important or popular in the eyes of our friends and associates. It makes us determined to follow the slogan: "If you can't say something good about someone, you don't say anything at all."

Besides these guides and codes for living, to me religion means many other things. It means the church with its fellowship, beautiful music, challenging sermons and chance to serve. It means the joy of Christmas, the sacrifice and rejoicing surrounding Easter, and the warmth of Thanksgiving. It means friends, kinfolks and loved ones. It means that though we fail many times to do what is right, we can be forgiven if we are truly sorry for what we have done by honestly striving to do better in the future. It means faith in the future and confidence in God's willingness to do what is best for us and to watch over us.

Yes, religion means many, many things, and although we realize we may never be worthy of His many blessings, God will always provide for our daily needs through wisdom, righteousness and forgiving love. We can count on that.

Cadets Down Campers By 62-56 Score

Shawmen Lose First; Frederick Chalks Up Fourth Win In Row

FREDERICK, Dec. 21 — Frederick High's Cadets stopped Allegany High's Campers, 62-56, to end the Alco quint's winning streak at three games here tonight. The victory was the fourth straight for Coach Homer Brooks' unbeaten Cadets.

The visiting Allegany five jumped off to a 6-0 lead early in the first quarter but the Brooksmen caught the Campers at 10-0 and went ahead to stay on Charley Keller's goal.

Frederick increased its margin to seven points at intermission, leaving the floor with a 36-29 lead. Allegany fought back to trail 47-44 at the close of the third quarter and pulled within two points at 56-54 with about three minutes remaining on Kenny Johnson's push shot from the foul circle.

However in the final moments Frederick pulled away for its six-point verdict.

Allegany lost Carl Brown with less than a minute to play while Charles Keller and Bob Moss also left in the final period on personal fouls for the Cadets.

Four of Frederick's starters shared the scoring burden for the Cadets with Bucky Summers leading the way with 15 points. Charles Keller, Moss and Bob Poole each had 13 tallies.

Johnson paced the losers with 15 points and was ably aided by Brown's 13 markers.

The meeting was the only one for the two teams in regular contests this season. The lineups:

A MEASURE OF GRID SUCCESS

FORMER HEAD COACH at Notre Dame, Frank Leahy (left) has come up with a device which will eliminate those frequent walks of the linemen to the center of the field to measure for first downs. The linemen sight through this gadget and the ball then can be placed accurately to within 1/64th of an inch. It was used at a recent game in Los Angeles. Fellow at right is a lineman who worked that game. (International)

Garlitz Goal Nets LaSalle 53-52 Victory

Dick's Half-Court Shot Sinks Bruce In Final Seconds

Dick Garlitz's half-court shot with two seconds remaining enabled LaSalle High School's scrappy Explorers to come from behind and defeat Bruce High School's Bulldogs in a 53-52 thriller last night at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

The game was exciting throughout, the score was knotted four times at 4-4, 22-22, 27-27 and 40-40 and the lead changed hands twelve times.

Bruce enjoyed a 50-47 lead when Van Parsons fouled out in the fourth period. Jim Ternent connected for a field goal and "Doc" Richard, who replaced Parsons, scored the goal that sent Coach George Geatz's Explorers to the fore at 51-50. With 15 seconds remaining, Tommy Riggins' basket gave the Bulldogs a 52-51 advantage. Then Garlitz slammed in the winning goal.

Garlitz was LaSalle's high point man with a total of 17. Parsons was runner-up with 15. Ellis Burke, Bruce center, tossed in a total of 16 points to pace the losers.

Bruce lost Ed Carder on personal fouls as the third period ended and Lynn Morris fouled out in the last quarter.

The Bulldogs outscored LaSalle, 19 to 18 in field goals but the Explorers had a 17-14 edge at the foul line.

LaSalle swept the two-game series, having won the opener at Westernport, 75-59. Lineups:

Baltimore Signs Wilber As Scout

BALTIMORE, Dec. 21 — Del Wilber, Chicago White Sox coach for the past two seasons, today was hired as a scout for the Baltimore Orioles.

The American League club said Wilber would do most of his baseball scouting in the St. Louis area. He played mostly as a catcher while in the majors with St. Louis and Philadelphia in the National League and Boston in the American League.

He was traded to the New York Giants and assigned to Minneapolis of the American Assn. but the Sox got him released.

Lennie Rosenbluth Hangs Up Record

BOSTON, Dec. 21 — Powerful North Carolina came to life in the second half to sweep aside Dartmouth 89-61 tonight as its All-America candidate, forward Lennie Rosenbluth, broke an all time Tarheel scoring mark with his 30 points.

Syracuse humbled Holy Cross 95-66 in the first game of the Boston Holiday Basketball Tournament at the Garden.

Rosenbluth's performance pushed his collegiate career total to 1,333 points in a little over two full seasons to shatter the previous North Carolina high of 1,322 by Al Lison fashioned over a four year span.

Brodie Of Stanford Has Narrow Escape

SAN CARLOS, Calif., Dec. 21 — Stanford's star quarterback John Brodie, the nation's leading passer in 1956, escaped injury in a spectacular automobile accident early today.

Brodie's car ran off the Bayshore Freeway at the San Carlos intersection, bowled over a big highway marker sign, skidded 150 feet and landed in a shallow ditch.

The windshield was smashed and Brodie was showered with glass, but unhurt.

In the 16th century an Oriental sultan had a harem in which there were more than 5,000 women, including attendants.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to take this means (thinking all our neighbors and friends) who were so kind to us following the death of our brother, Lester E. Evers, and are grateful for the floral tributes and all who gave their assistance to us. We especially wish to thank R. Fink of St. John's Lutheran Church who conducted the funeral service. We also wish to thank the employees of the Potomac Edison and Kell Springfield Tire Co. for the mailboxes and those who donated cars for the funeral.

Towns To Get Funds To Curb Pollution

County Places In Second Group

BALTIMORE, Dec. 21 (AP)—Eight Maryland towns under orders to improve their pollution-control conditions were given top priority today on Federal funds earmarked for such programs in the State.

The State Water Pollution Control Commission and Department of Health, joint administrators of the funds, placed the communities in the first of six categories. Maryland is due $750,300 a year for the next 10 years under the Federal plan.

In the top priority bracket are Elkton, Havre de Grace, Laurel, North Beach, Perryville, Pocomoke City, Princess Anne and Rockville.

Spokesmen for the health and pollution control agencies said the money will be distributed on the basis of each community's need and its readiness to begin construction of necessary projects.

Besides the No. 1 priority, they listed these other and the communities in each:

Discharging raw sewage, need interceptor and treatment plant—Barton, Denton, Federalburg, Frostburg, Greensboro, Hancock, La Vale, Lonaconing, Luke, Midland, Oakland, Port Deposit, Preston, Salisbury, Sharptown, Snow Hill, Vienna, Westernport.

Treatment inadequate, need plant additions—Bertown, Brunswick, Centerville, Chestertown, Crisfield, Delmar, Easton, Emmitsburg, Hagerstown, Hurlock, Indianhead, Leonardtown, Ocean City, Ridgely, Rising Sun, Savage, Westminster, Williamsport.

Public water supply, no sewers, need interceptor and treatment plant—Boonsboro, Chesapeake Beach, Clear Spring, Cresaptown, Elkridge, Ellicott City - Oella, Funkstown, Halfway, Hampstead, Manchester, Mount Airy, New Windsor, Northeast, Oxford, Queenstown, Rock Hall, Secretary, Smithsburg, Trappe, Union Bridge, Walkersville.

No public water supply, no sewers, need interceptor and treatment plant—Charlestown, Sudlersville, Sykesville.

Interceptors and treatment needed—Anne Arundel, Baltimore County, Baltimore City, Washington suburban.

Anderson Gets Job Promotion At Celanese

Harold F. Anderson, 223 Maple Street, Frostburg, an operator since 1948 in the Warp Winding Department of Celanese, has been promoted to shift supervisor in the same department of Textile Manufacturing effective December 23, according to an announcement from the Personnel Department.

Anderson participated in the pre-supervisory, company-sponsored training course which was offered last year. This training included supplementary night courses at Fort Hill High School in the basic sciences and correspondence courses in textiles, as well as human relations training given at the plant. He is the third member of the training group to have been placed in supervisory positions during the year.

A native of Lonaconing, he was graduated from Central High School in 1944 and started at Amcelle in July of the same year. On February 2, 1945, he entered the U. S. Navy where he completed the six-month Basic Engineering School at Gulfport, Miss. He had sea duty for a year as a fireman first class on a destroyer escort in the Atlantic and was honorably discharged on July 26, 1946.

He is married and has a nine-year-old daughter. He is a member of the Frostburg Methodist Church. His outside interests are centered around home-improvement activities.

Shepherds On Hilltop Scene At St. Luke's

A colorful night scene, showing shepherds and their flocks on a hilltop overlooking the Holy City the night the Christ was born, is attracting many visitors to St. Luke's Lutheran Church on Bedford Street. Built from a miniature model designed by J. Millard Hughes, the set was constructed and erected by members of the Lutheran Brotherhood at the church. Mr. Hughes was assisted by Raymond Beeman, Coit Speicher, Harry Hartman, Lewis Baker Sr., Clifford Bennett, Edward Eichner, Carl Reith, Frank Foster, Lehr Baker and George Smith. It is the first display of its kind attempted at St. Luke's.

Pre-Assembly Caucus Dinner Slated By GOP

Del. Hughes Will Seek Minority Post

Invitations to attend the caucus dinner of Republican members of the Legislature have been received by Allegany County legislators.

State Senator Charles M. See said D. Eldred Reinhart, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Maryland, has called the meeting for January 1 at 7 p.m. in Carvel Hall at Annapolis.

He said all of the county legislators plan to attend the planning and strategy session in preparation for the 90-day session of the General Assembly which opens on Wednesday, January 2.

Del. George R. Hughes Jr., who served as Republican minority leader in the House of Delegates last year, will be a candidate for reelection at the caucus meeting.

It is understood he will face opposition for the post.

Sen. See said the session will be "wide open" as laws of both state and local interest may be introduced.

Included will be more than a dozen bills which were discussed in a series of legislative hearings held by Sen. See and the Allegany County Delegation in the past two months.

The senator said constituents who wish to contact the legislators during the General Assembly should phone person to person or write in care of the State House in Annapolis.

Clubs To Hold Kettle Drives

Service clubs of this area will man Salvation Army kettles today to raise funds for the annual Christmas Cheer program of that Red Feather agency.

In Cumberland, the Lions Club will be in charge of the kettle house from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. while the Civitan Club will be in charge of a kettle at the National Shirt Shop and the Kiwanis Club at the Montgomery Ward store.

In South Cumberland, the kettle house will be in charge of the Optimist Club.

In Frostburg, the Lions and Rotary clubs will ring bells at kettles from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. and in Lonaconing, the Lions and Rotary clubs will be in charge of the kettle drive.

Kettles at Keyser will be manned by the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, and the United Organizations in charge of collections in the Tri-Towns, where $220.68 has already been raised for the Christmas program.

The Ali Ghan Shrine Band will play at the kettle collections here and at Frostburg early this afternoon.

Garbage Collection

Garbage will be collected in Ridgeley on Wednesday, December 26 instead of on Christmas Day and the following week it will be picked up on Wednesday, January 2, according to Mayor Charles H. Fryer.

Legion Issues Warning On Survivors Benefits

Termed the most drastic change in laws affecting veterans since the Economy Act of 1933, the American Legion is warning widows, guardians or children and parents of veterans who will have died before January 1, 1957, as a result of military or naval service to study cautiously a pamphlet entitled "Survivors Benefits Information."

Russell C. Paupe, adjutant of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, noted yesterday that these pamphlets are being mailed to survivors. Each pamphlet includes a new VA form, VB-4178 which is an application for the payment of benefits under Public Law 881 instead of the law or laws under which death benefits are now being paid.

In a few instances, this new plan may prove beneficial to the survivors. However, legionnaires contend and warn that it will be detrimental to many now receiving death benefits, compensation or insurance because of a military or naval death.

The new act is not effective until January 1, 1957. Widows and orphans or other dependents now on the rolls will continue to receive payments until that date even if they choose to go under the new law. Such persons have until July 1, 1957 to make up their minds, Mr. Paupe explains. If they do sign the form to increase their benefits, "if any," the claim will date back to January 1, 1957.

However, Mr. Paupe explains, before any survivor or guardian of a survivor elects to sign the form, the entire situation should be carefully discussed with a representative of the Veterans Administration or reliable veterans service officer, so that all of the implications are fully understandable. "It is better to be certain than sorry," he observed, "because once this new form is signed, it can never be changed again, under the law, and what at first glance may appear to be a better deal, may result in reduced benefits and hardship later on."

Legion officers at national, state and local levels, have been issuing warnings about this new form and pamphlet being mailed under the "economy" law No. 881, Paupe declared.

Fireman Hurt Trimming Porch

A city fireman was hospitalized as a result of a nasal accident—he fell about 18 feet from a ladder while working at his home.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital with chest injuries was George D. Hobbitt, of 412 Beall Street. He was released from the hospital yesterday.

The victim was reported to have been putting up Christmas trimmings on his front porch and when the ladder broke he tumbled to the ground.

Garbage Collection In LaVale Reduced

Garbage will not be picked up in LaVale on Christmas or New Year's, according to an announcement by the Boch Hauling Service.

Only Friday service will be rendered during those two weeks for the customers that use the hauling service. Discarded Christmas trees will be picked up on Saturday, December 29, and Saturday, January 5. All trees should be placed along the curb on the two days. No trees will be picked up on the regular schedule.

Red Cross Has $1,576 Raised In Relief Fund

County Still Short Of $2,630 Quota

As the emergency campaign to aid Hungarian refugees and Hungarian people still within the borders of their country continues, Allegany County Red Cross Chapter has collected $1,576.81 in voluntary contributions towards their assigned goal of $2,630.

Red Cross leaders hope that over the weekend, more contributions will be received so that the goal can be reached and the campaign closed.

Information received from the area Red Cross office and from National Red Cross explains that funds are badly needed as the task of bringing food, clothing, medical care and welfare services to the stricken people continues.

The Red Cross is at work on three fronts in the effort. In this country, as Hungarian refugees arrive, the Red Cross has been assigned the task of temporary care until they can be settled in permanent homes and jobs. At Camp Kilmer, N. J., this big program is underway.

In Austria, where many of the refugees have gained temporary asylum from the oppressed land, the Red Cross, working through the International organization as well as the Austrian chapter, is doing a tremendous job of caring for the refugees.

On Hungarian soil, the International Red Cross is being permitted to aid the stricken people. The Hungarian Red Cross, the Swiss Red Cross and the American Red Cross are providing clothing and food packages which are being distributed to the men, women and children who need them.

Mrs. George W. Legge, local chapter secretary, said yesterday the information that is being received indicates the enormity of the task and the continuing and increasing need for funds. The Eastern area, of which the local chapter is a part, has raised over a million dollars, of the total quota, but several sections, including this county still need additional funds to fill their obligation. She renewed her appeal for more mailed contributions, so the goal can be met.

PE Publicizes Tree Lighting

The colorful little folder distributed each month by the Potomac Edison System with its electricity bills is now focusing attention on the Cumberland community Christmas lighting as it appeared last December on the hill below Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

The vari-colored picture gives an indication of the scene as it appeared last year and as it appears again this year. Each month a different community in the four-state Potomac Edison System is featured.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bachman, West Covina, Calif., announce the birth of a son Wednesday. The mother is the former Miss Diane Kitzmiller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Kitzmiller, 106 LeFevre Road.

Five Countians Graduate As Md. State Police

McCain Presents Badges, Diplomas

Five Allegany County men, including two Cumberlanders, were graduated yesterday from the Maryland State Police Academy at Pikesville following an intensive six-month course.

Badges and diplomas were presented to 30 members of the class including William S. McAfee and Ronald Wallace George, of Cumberland, Henry J. Frost, of Frostburg, William R. Turnbull and Elmer Cameron, of Lonaconing.

In the absence of Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, the graduation speech was delivered by Russell H. McCain, former State Roads Commission chairman and now McKeldin's executive secretary.

Trooper McAfee, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth J. McAfee, 69 Prospect Square, attended Allegany High School and in his senior year enlisted in the service.

He qualified for a high school diploma while in the service. He was formerly employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here.

Trooper George, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. George, 223 Hay Street, was graduated from Allegany High School where he played baseball. He spent three years in the Army and was with the Army Security Service. He also formerly worked at the tire plant.

Trooper Frost, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frost, was graduated from Beall High School in 1952 and after entering the service was in a Military Police unit. He saw service in Germany. Trooper Frost was a temporary police officer at Frostburg and for a while was a clerk at State Police headquarters in Pikesville.

Trooper Cameron is a son of Mrs. Pearl Cameron of West Main Street in Lonaconing. A graduate of Central High School he was formerly employed at the Amcelle Plant.

Trooper Turnbull is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Turnbull, also of West Main Street in Lonaconing. Prior to going to Pikesville to school he was employed in the laboratory at the Amcelle plant.

Garment Plant At Hyndman To Close Soon

HYNDMAN, Pa., Dec. 21 (AP)—This Bedford County community whose business district was gutted in a Christmas night fire in 1949 has received another Christmas-time setback. One of the town's principal industries is going to close at the end of the year.

Maurice Milberg of Cumberland, Md., manager of the Hyndman Undergarment Co., says the sewing plant will shut down permanently due to a lack of orders. The company is a branch of a larger Cumberland concern, Cumberland Undergarment Co.

The Hyndman plant has provided employment for about 30 persons in this community of 1,300 during the past four years, but Hyndman residents are taking their new setback in stride and plans already are under way to attract a new garment plant to locate in the vacated building.

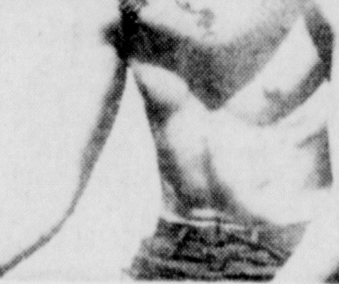

Damage in the fire seven years ago was estimated at $750,000. The buildings have been rebuilt and few traces of the disaster remain.

United Fund Study Meeting Set Today

The Executive Committee of the United Fund Study Committee will hold a luncheon meeting today at noon in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Chamber Urges Greater Use Of Bus Facilities

Cites Five-Point Traffic Program

SKIN DIVER — Marine Sgt. James W. Murphy Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Murphy, of Christie Road, is a scout-swimmer with the Second Marine Division's Reconnaissance Company at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Wider use of buses would help in great measure to relieve the traffic congestion, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce said yesterday in endorsing the program of the Cumberland Transit Lines to encourage greater use of public transportation.

The Chamber said it did not hold out greater use of mass transportation as the only solution for traffic congestion, since many factors contribute to the problem.

Among these are narrow streets, narrow bridges, on-street parking, lack of off-street parking facilities, high density of land use, through traffic routed through the downtown area, greater concentration of movement during rush hours and widespread preference for private car riding.

Just as there is no single cause for the traffic congestion, the Chamber said, there is no single solution for the problem. The solution lies in a combination of steps.

These include (1) sound engineering and planning, (2) education so that people will understand the problem, (3) enforcement to see that plans work and that laws are not flouted, (4) additional off-street parking facilities and (5) greater use of the local transit system.

The last step, the Chamber said, is the simplest and the most readily available.

On step four, the Chamber recommended the establishment of a parking authority as an effective way to handle the off-street parking problem.

Compete For Space

Private cars, trucks, buses, taxis and pedestrians now all compete for downtown street space, the Chamber said. That space is by topographical and geographical limits insufficient to provide room for all. The bus is an efficient vehicle for transporting people through downtown areas. The chief advantage is that it carries more people in less space. A 30-passenger bus takes up the space of about two cars. Obviously, if more people would use the buses, downtown traffic jams could ease up.

A further aspect of the problem is that in many cities through the country, because of the decrease, use of mass transportation facilities, transit lines have either been subsidized or taken over by municipal authorities. In such cases, this adds to the tax burden of already harassed taxpayers.

Weighing all the factors, it is the view of the Chamber that if more people would use the buses the traffic problem could be relieved and the transit line could be assured a fair rate for its investment.

The statement followed action of the board of directors of the Chamber Thursday night.

The Mayor and Council earlier this week pledged cooperation.

Pinto Church Plans Cantata

The Pinto Mennonite Church will present its annual Christmas cantata at 10 p. m. tomorrow. Vitoria R. Lehman's "A King Is Given," has been chosen for the 16 voice choir which will sing 16 selections including solos, duets and trios.

The men's chorus will participate. The speaking part of the cantata is directed by Mrs. Paul Livengood. Those taking part are Royal Abe as Isaiah; Claude Yoder as Joseph; Virginia Moreland, Mary; Nancy Bauch, speaking angel; Betty Yoder, Elsie Collins, Jean Pennington, Eloise Trost, Barbara Bosley, Ruth Lark, Janet Watts and Norma Yoder, angels.

The Bethlehem children are Caroline Iser, Wayne Longenecker, Esta Moreland, Linda Weese, Johnnie Collins, Linda Dayton, Judy Livengood, Gail Beall. Shepherds will be John Dayton, Charles Liller and Calvin Dayton. The three wise men will be Harold Hawkins, Kenneth Iser and Richard Trost. Norma Taylor will be the narrator of the cantata and Mrs. Harold Ours will direct the chorus. Rev. Lehman Longenecker will give the invocation and Rev. Roy Glass the benediction.

Ridgeley Yule Tree Lighting Slated Tonight

The community of Ridgeley will hold its annual Christmas tree-lighting program this evening beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer will pull the switch turning on the lights of the tree which is located at the corner of Third Avenue and Potomac Street near the fire hall.

Rev. Harold L. May, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, and Rev. Robert Kilgannon, pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, will represent the clergy at the celebration.

Exchange Club Aids Crippled Children

The Cumberland Exchange Club, which annually provides $300 for the Allegany County League for Crippled Children to buy braces, wheel chairs and other needed appliances, made their check presentation yesterday to Miss Henrietta Lippold, league director. Richard T. Cook, club president is shown presenting the check, while one of their little beneficiaries, Robert Pressman of Frostburg, looks on.
